Mullett Lake's First Name In Dining Excellence

Established a Long Time Ago

The meal that you enjoy at the Hack-Ma-Tack is the result of more than 100 years of careful development. Since 1894 when Watson Beebe constructed the Inn as a private hunting and fishing lodge, the story has been one of constant expansion to meet the popularity.

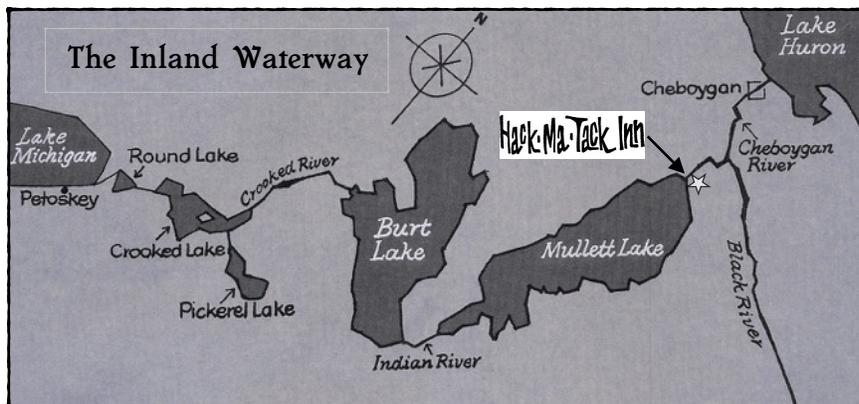

We at the Hack-Ma-Tack still adhere to a standard of dining out that is symbolized by a wholesome, home cooked quality to the dinners we place before you and a comfortable and congenial manner of service to you...our çuests. Your Hosts welcome you, and invite you to choose your eveninç's pleasure from various individually prepared entrees. To compliment your dinner, we recommend our complete list of American and European wines, or your favorite cocktail from the Pow Wow Lounçe.

The Legend of "The Big-Black-Bass"

The Cheboygan flowed from Mullett to Huron and upon its banks shaded by the birches, stood Oskeloosa, daughter of Hackmatack.

As she viewed the setting sun, over the river, her heart was saddened by the thought of the curse placed upon her by Chick-a-gami, to whom her Father had refused her hand.

Chick-a-gami vowed that she should share no mans tepee until "He" came as the captor of the "Big-Black-Bass" and removed the Indian sign.

The birches parted, and there stood before her a handsome man, finally Oskeloosa said "Who are you?" "I am Omean, a Huron fisherman. I have heard it said that the Captor of the "Big-Black-Bass" shall have the daughter of Hackmatack, to share his teepee."

As Oskeloosa looked upon the Huron, he found favor in her eyes and she said "That is true, and thus he gains two prizes."

Many years she awaited the return of Omean, until finally she and Hackmatack left for the Happy Hunting Grounds.

Omean in spirit, and through his proteges still pursue the Chase of the Big-Black-Bass that the Indian sign may be removed.

Thus beginneth the Tribe of the "SEEKERS OF THE BIG-BLACK-BASS".
